

UNIVERSITÀ
DEGLI STUDI
DI PALERMO

FIU

FLORIDA
INTERNATIONAL UNIVERSITY

Alta Scuola

Dr Ninfa Pagano

Dr. Ninfa Pagano is an adjunct professor of ESP (English for Special Purposes ) and English for Tourism at the Department of Economics, University of Palermo, course in Tourism Studies. She holds a degree in Foreign Languages and Literatures, University of Palermo, and an MA in English Literature, University of Urbino (Italy). She also studied and carried out research in Great Britain (London, Oxford) and Germany (Otto-Friedrich Universitaet, Bamberg).

She is a member of the scientific committee of the Master in Hospitality Management, Food and Beverage (University of Palermo, in cooperation with Florida International University). In the Master course she also lectures on Tourism English.

Her research interests lie in the areas of Tourism Discourse, Intercultural Business Communication and literature methodology, in whose fields she has published books and articles.

She is a member of AIA (Italian Association of Anglistics) and a British Council teacher trainer.