

UNIVERSITÀ
DEGLI STUDI
DI PALERMO

Alta Scuola

Sonia Quarchioni

Sonia Quarchioni is a Ph.D. in Accounting, Business Administration and Management. She has been research fellow at the University of Siena (Italy) where she taught Management accounting and Strategic management accounting. Currently, she is teaching Financial Planning and Control Systems at the University of Palermo. Also, she has been visiting research student at the London School of Economics and Political Science (UK).

Sonia's main research interests deal with management accounting and control and performance measurement systems, as well as with the development of risk management practices in different organizational contexts. On these topics she has published book chapters and articles in Italian academic and professional journals, as well as in leading international peer-reviewed journals such as European Accounting Review.