Emmanuel Nocera

Emmanuel Nocera is currently working for ARCES University College at the Job Placement Services Unit (JPSAU), a transition place between training and the world of work.

He is graduated in Philosophical Sciences; in 2015 He obtained his degree in Philosophy at the University of Palermo through the Teaching Training Program.

In particular, within the training activities of ARCES, Mr. Nocera is engaged in the identification and selection of companies which can host young people (graduates, unemployed, NEETs, students, Vet learners, etc.) for training on the job through internships or job placements.

Within the services activities of ARCES, He is also engaged in counselling and work orientation related activities addressed to all users seeking employment or to those people who are willing to change their work situation when new opportunities arise, by privileging orientation, tutoring and peer support activities. In addition, He offers its expertise to local companies for Job placement activities, such as screening curriculum, recruiting, activating and managing extracurricular company placements.

Mr. Nocera annually collaborates with the Institutes and Universities of Palermo to elaborate and implement Job Oriented Projects.
